HE PAID THAT DEBT.

And Won a Nice Little Bet For a Friend of His.

A good story is told of the forgetfulness of a certain Richard Scott. He met a wealthy friend of his at the Saturn club one day and said:

"Oh, Bronson! Just the man I wanted to see! Lend me $10, will you? I left my wallet home."

Mr. Bronson gave him the money, and with an amused expression on his face told Mr. Scott he'd remind him of the loan in case it slipped his memory.

Two weeks went by, and one day Mr. Bronson gently referred to the loan, which was promptly paid by Mr. Scott. A few nights later he again went up to good Mr. Scott and began:

"Of course, you know, Scott, it's a thing I hate to speak of, but you—er—borrowed $10 of me a little over two weeks ago, and if you can—"

"My dear sir," returned Mr. Scott, "you really must pardon me. My poor memory plays me false too often." And he took $10 from his pocket and handed it to Mr. Bronson.

One night at the club, a week later, Mr. Scott was sitting over in a bow window reading, when Mr. Bronson approached and after a few general remarks said:

"Scott, my dear fellow, I know you mean to be honest, but really you ought to be more careful of your little debts. Now, there is $10 you borrowed of me a month ago."

"Haven't I paid you that?" queried Mr. Scott, rather puzzled.

"Would I be speaking of it now if you had?" returned Mr. Bronson.

"Well," replied Scott, "I suppose it's that wretched memory of mine." And he paid him the third $10.

About a week afterward a mutual friend of both came up to Mr. Scott in the dining room of the club and said confidentially:

"Really, you know, Scott, you ought to pay Bronson that $10 you owe him. Pardon me for speaking of it, but you know we were talking of you this afternoon, you and your poor memory, and Bronson told me of your forgetfulness in this little matter as an example. Now—"

"But, confound it!" answered Scott, "I am almost sure I paid him. Here, I'll go over and ask him." With that he hastened over to the group in which was Bronson.

"Didn't I pay you that $10?" Scott began.

The different men looked at each other significantly. This was too much for Scott. He couldn't stand ridicule. He paid two $5 bills to Bronson.

The latter kept it in his hand, and drawing out of his pocket $20 more he rolled them up and gravely handed them to the astonished Mr. Scott.

"It belongs to you," he said. "X—here and I had a bet about you and your lack of memory. I bet the champagne that you would pay me that $10 four times and think each time it was the first. I see X—is giving the order, and I say, Scott, I think you had better join us!"—Harper's Bazar.

How She Crushed Him.

They sat in the parlor gazing at the natural gas flames as they chased each other over the asbestos surface.

The two were Miss Bellefield and Mr. Van Braam, and the young man was in love with the young woman. He was doubtful of her feelings toward him, however, for she was not a girl to display her love, if she had any, until it was sought.

The young man had not spoken. He decided the ordeal. He was fearful of the result. The conversation turned upon marriage, and in the course of the discussion Miss Bellefield said:

"In Burmah the women propose to the men."

"How I wish we were in Burmah!" the young man replied with a slight stress on the plural pronoun.

"It wouldn't do you any good if we were," replied the girl, and Mr. Van Braam did not linger much longer that evening.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

FOUND DEAD.

Entire Family at Independence Destroyed.

Decomposition Set In Before They Were Found.

WAS IT FOUL PLAY?

Poisoning the Only Reasonable Explanation.

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Jan. 2.—At 1 o'clock yesterday morning the home of George W. Read, manager of the Long-Bell Lumber company, was broken into by Al Brown, Mr. Read's son-in-law, and auspicious neighbors under the impression that all was not right. The discovery made was horrifying and involves the greatest mystery known to Southern Kansas. Mr. Read, clad only in his night clothes, sat in a chair before a hot stove fed by natural gas, his body in an advanced stage of decomposition. Miss Edith Scott, a domestic of the family, lay dead on the floor of her room. Mr. Read and her eight-year-old son were in bed, the boy in a dying condition and the mother unconscious. Mrs. Read may recover.

Many theories are current as to the cause, one being asphyxiation, another accidental poisoning, and another foul play. The fact that two gas stoves in the house were burning full force practically explodes the theory of asphyxiation, and the fact that no bruises were found on either person renders the theory of accidental poisoning almost incredible, leaving accidental poisoning as the most probable cause.

None of the family were seen later than Saturday evening, leaving no doubt whatever that Mr. Read and Miss Scott had been dead thirty-six hours before discovered. Every room in the house was intensely hot, and there being no ventilation, the fumes from the badly decomposed body of Read were stifling.

Mr. Read came here twelve years ago from Shelbyville, Ky., and has figured conspicuously in politics during that time. He has served three terms as alderman, and but recently retired from the chairmanship of the Democratic central committee of Montgomery county.

An autopsy was held on the dead bodies yesterday, but nothing definite can be ascertained until analysis of the stomachs has been completed.

SLAUGHTER AT A DANCE.

A Fatal Case in a Room Full of Dancers With Terrible Results.

COLUMBIA, Texas, Jan. 2.—Full accounts of a wholesale killing at Cedar, about eight miles from here, are just in. E. N. Williams was dancing on the floor and aroused the animosity of Lemon Gayle, who demanded that Williams surrender his place on the floor.

Williams at first refused, but Gayle became boisterous and Williams started from the room when Gayle, his brother, London Gayle, and Bob Kaly, began firing at Williams and others.

London Gayle shot through the window and killed a boy named Elbert Waddy, when another boy, Isaac Scott, was killed. "London Gayle has killed my Waddy," whereupon London turned and saying, "What is that to you?" shot him through and through, killing him instantly.

Then a general fusillade followed from guns and pistols. A woman was shot through the breast and is now dead. Lemon Gayle is shot through the body and will die; a girl is shot in the face near the eye, another square in the middle of the head, the other striking and lodging next to the skin back of the head, one boy is shot in the arm and through the right hand, and others have received slighter wounds.

GREAT SHIP CANAL.

The One From Eastham to Manchester Is Now Open.

MANCHESTER, Jan. 2.—The great ship canal from Eastham to Manchester is now an accomplished fact and the town of Manchester, situated about forty miles from the sea board, can be reached by sea from New York in about ten hours after arriving at Liverpool. On December 1 a steamer conveying the directors of the canal made the entire journey of the canal, but the formal official opening did not take place until yesterday.

In order to realize the full significance of this fact and of all that it implies, we have to consider the sudden creation of a great port in direct communication with all parts of the world, close to and partly within the confines of an immense commercial city and surrounded by an industrial population of 3,250,000.

The work is the outcome of a series of long investigations in parliamentary committees in the years 1881, 1884 and 1885. The supporters of the canal, who spent $150,000 in obtaining the act, were the manufacturers and merchants of Manchester, and its principal opponents were the corporations at Liverpool.

MIDWINTER FAIR.

Informal Opening of the San Francisco Exposition Occurs.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—After Christmas week of cool, cloudy weather, which closed with a slight rain fall, New Year's day opened clear and pleasant in San Francisco. It was a double holiday here, owing to the fact that the California Midwinter International exposition opened, although the opening was purely informal, the dedicatory exercises having been postponed until the main buildings are completed and the exhibits are in place. There were no formal exercises and the only special features were concerts by the Midwinter Fair band and the unveiling of Sir Francis Drake's monument, the "Prayer Book Cross."

MRS. DOLE WRITES.

The Wife of President Dole on the Hawaiian Situation.

Boulder, Colo., Jan. 2.—Under date of December 9 last, Mrs. Dole, wife of the president of Hawaii, wrote an interesting letter to her nephew, Guy Bennett of this city, from which the following extract is taken:

"The news of Cleveland's policy of restoring the queen came upon us like a thunder-bolt. The excitement was intense here. The provisional government rose to the emergency in a splendid way. I admire their magnificent courage, even while I tremble. They fortified the executive building more strongly and gave out publicly that they would resist attacks from whatever quarter."

"They are ready to sacrifice their lives in the great cause—the cause of freedom and civilization in these islands. It all reminds me more than anything of the old revolutionary times in the United States; the same spirit and much the same cause, only more need here. It seems to me 'Is it not good how plans for restoring the Queen on November 10 were frustrated? It is a fine thing to see, and to think of little Hawaii causing all this excitement. But there is a tremendous principle in the principle of freedom and right against autocratic tyranny and wrong. It is grand to see the spirit here. But we believe now that the people have taken up the cause, we shall be all right. We are hoping for good news from congress by next steamer."

A MISER DROPS DEAD.

He Was a Veteran of the Crimean and Civil Wars and Wealthy.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 2.—Thomas Payne King dropped dead yesterday morning in the Rock Island depot here. Apoplexy was the cause. King went through the Crimean war as a British officer and was in the famous charge of the Light Brigade at Balaclava.

Shortly before the war he came over to America and joined the Union forces and served all through the war. He has been drawing good pensions from both the American and British governments, but he was never known to buy anything, so he is supposed to have amassed considerable money. He owns property here, Chicago, Fort Scott and Kansas City, but as no one knows where he dwelt no papers have yet been discovered.

He was the richest miser, went about in rags, with his feet swathed in cloths, and he fed from the scrap barrels of the restaurants, hence he was known here as Swill Barrel Charlie. His wealth has been estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000.

MISSOURI POPULISTS.

They Will Nominate a State Ticket—Against Fusion.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 2.—At a session of the Populist state central committee held last night, it was decided to call a state convention of the Populist party of Missouri to meet in this city the last Tuesday in March, 1894, to put a straight Populist state ticket in the field. The committee resolved against fusion with either of the old parties.

Accidentally Shot While Coasting.

VERMILION, S. D., Jan. 2.—Another shooting affair last night resulted in the death of Charles Overhulz, son of G. R. Overhulz, the reform orator. Overhulz, with companions, was coasting near the Atwood place, two miles north of town. A sleigh load of young people passed and ran to the bottom of the hill, where Walter Hoffman fired a revolver and died in the air, but in the direction of the coasters. The ball struck Overhulz between the eyes and he cannot live. Hoffman is the senior editor of the Clay County Freeman. He gave himself up.

New Prohibition Party.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 2.—A conference of the leaders of the proposed new national prohibition party was held at 150 Fourth avenue yesterday. There were twelve people present, about half of them being women. The meeting was merely a business one to arrange for the dissemination of prohibition ideas throughout the country. It was decided to raise $3,000 and spend it in the interest of the new party. Organizers are to be employed and set to work at once.

They are all serving terms for horse stealing and for felonies.

BURNED ALIVE.

A Lodging House at Buffalo Destroyed.

Many Jump From the Windows to Death.

SIX PERSONS BURNED.

The Building Was Very Old and Dry.

BUFFALO, Mass., Jan. 2.—Soon after 2 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the rear of a cheap restaurant and lodging house, on the west side of Washington street, just north of Swan street. In addition to the proprietress, a notorious character known as "Scotch Liz," there were from twelve to eighteen lodgers.

At 3 o'clock six dead bodies had been taken out of the ruins, and it is thought that there are other bodies in the cellar. The building was old and dry and proved a veritable tinder box. Several of the inmates jumped from the second story and received terrible injuries.

Stevens Banqueted.

The Ex-Hawaiian Minister Talks to Rhode Island Republicans.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 2.—The Garfield Republican club held a brilliant banquet last evening, a fitting close to the day's inauguration ceremonies. Covers were laid at the Alcazar for 200. Mayor Tiepke presided, and besides the special guest of the evening, ex-Minister Stevens and ex-Congressman Horr were present.

It was 9 o'clock when Mayor Tiepke introduced John L. Stevens. Mr. Stevens was received with prolonged applause. His preface was an exhaustive review of the resources and population of the Hawaiian islands and their commercial importance to the United States.

Trenting of the present aspect of Hawaiian affairs, he declared that the return of Queen Liliuokalani to the throne by any outside force or intimidation by any diplomatic pressure or chicanery will be a public crime by whoever done. It would make of Hawaii a second Singapore or Hong Kong. It might be all very well for a British colony, but not adapted to American institutions nor intended for an American form of government. Ex-Congressman Roswell B. Horr of Michigan was next introduced, his address being purely political and a vehement denunciation of the Wilson tariff bill.

CABINET CHANGES.

Hornblower to Be Made Attorney General and Olney Associate Justice.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 2.—A Republic special says: It is stated in administration circles that the president will withdraw the nomination of Mr. Hornblower of New York for an associate justice of the supreme court. There are several versions of the story, all insisting that they are accurate. The one told by a man high in the councils of the Democratic party and very close to the president, is to this effect: "The president has concluded that Hornblower cannot be confirmed. In consequence he has decided to withdraw his nomination and substitute Olney, the present attorney general, for the vacant judgeship, put Bissell, the present postmaster general in Olney's place and put Josiah Quincy, late assistant secretary of state, in Bissell's place as postmaster general."

A STRANGE STORY.

Treasurer Klockson Was Sandbagged and Placed in a Box Car.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Jan. 2.—Since George Klockson, the grand treasurer of the Knights of Honor, who disappeared from home several months ago, was found in a hospital at Fresno, Cal., with his head and hands severely injured, no attempt has been made to explain the reason for his sudden departure or how he found his way into that western country.

Yesterday his daughters received a letter from Mrs. Klockson, who is attending him at the hospital, giving his statement as follows:

"After arriving at Kansas City I walked around the depot and was approached by two strangers, one of whom struck me on the head with some heavy instrument, after which I was unconscious and knew no more until I received near a town which I found was Colorado Springs. I was in a box car with the same two men I had met in Kansas City."

"They took all my money, watch and part of my clothing and then ejected me from the car. I walked to Colorado Springs and then worked my way west." Mrs. Klockson says he has a big wound on the back of his head and that he was so ragged that she did not know him.

At the time of his arrival at the hospital his speech was very incoherent and his mental faculties were only restored by a long conversation with Mrs. Klockson. She says that it was while beating his way into Fresno that he fell from the train and so injured his head that it became necessary to amputate two of his fingers. The doctors say it will be a month before he will be well enough to leave the hospital.

CONFESSED A MURDER.

A Mysterious Disappearance in Russell County, Kansas, Cleared Up.

LUCAS, Kan., Jan. 2.—Green Burton and Mrs. Gay and her son who are in jail at Russell on suspicion of murdering Fred Dinniny confessed last night to having poisoned him while at dinner. The people hereabouts are excited over the confessions and great crowds are hunting for the body of the murdered man.

Last July Fred Dinniny, who was employed as a farm hand by Green Burton, suddenly disappeared. Shortly after his watch and saddle were found in the possession of Burton. Then Burton passed a check for $50 by forging the signature. Two weeks ago he was arrested for forgery and lodged in the Russell jail. Suspicion pointed to him and others as the murderers of Dinniny. Mrs. Gay and her son and S. D. Mitchell of Lucas, were arrested on suspicion.

Burton is hunchback and a cripple and walk with crutches, a typical murderer. Gay is a half-witted man of about 35. Mitchell still denies knowledge of the crime.

AMATEURS WITH A REVOLVER.

One Young Girl Accidentally Kills Another.

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 2.—At Hadesville, Ky., fifteen miles from Clarksville, on the Louisville and Nashville road, one girl became the slayer of another girl friend.

Three young ladies were examining Christmas presents at the residence of J. E. Shelton, when Miss Shelton picked up a revolver and aiming it at Miss Allen, one of her guests, said: "Watch out, I will shoot." Instantly a loud report rang out and Miss Shelton believed her companion fell dead at her feet, with a bullet in her temple.

There are several reports as to the cause of the tragedy. Reliable parties state that the two girls were rival lovers and that Miss Shelton committed the murder. Others, equally reliable, are of the opinion that the shooting was accidental, Miss Shelton not knowing the weapon was loaded.

Shot and Then Robbed.

SEDALIA, Mo., Jan. 2.—Ward Wickline, a young farmer, had a bloody encounter with two desperate highwaymen three miles west of the city last night. Wickline was walking from Sedalia home when two men sprang in front of him and, covering him with revolvers, commanded him to throw up his hands. He did so, but one contained a gun, and he commenced shooting. The highwaymen returned the fire. Wickline received a ball through the left arm, but kept on shooting until a ball through his thigh knocked him down. The robbers then went through his pockets and secured a considerable sum of money.
